

 PRESS RELEASE / EDMONTON, SEPTEMBER 14, 2020

Oaklu welcomes Maurice D'Aoust as President and CEO.

In response to rapid global expansion, Oaklu Board of Directors is pleased to appoint Maurice D'Aoust as President and CEO.

With over 30 years of experience in construction and 20 years of experience in construction management, Maurice has worked around the globe in the oil, petrochemical, natural gas, and pulp and paper industries. From his beginnings as a gasfitter and steamfitter, to working in quality assurance and field coordination, Maurice understands all aspects of construction. He has overseen multiple major projects in Canada and abroad while at his previous role as a President of Canonbie – a division of Aecon, Canada's largest publicly traded construction and infrastructure company.

Previously Maurice was on the Board of Directors for Progressive Contractors Association of Canada (PCA).

Maurice demonstrates strong interpersonal and leadership skills, and brings a “can do” attitude to construction regardless of project's challenges. Maurice believes in creating a safety culture that extends far beyond the workplace and a strong team environment where people work together to achieve greatness.

“I'm very excited about the opportunity to leave a lasting positive mark on the world around us with every project that comes through the doors of Oaklu” said Maurice.
